Dave,

I was able to watch the Zack News coverage of the meeting about the plans being considered for Fire Protection for the City.

Here is the title of a free document provided by FEMA, which may help the City Manager and the City Council members in their decision making:

U.S. Fire Administration
Retention and Recruitment for the Volunteer Emergency Services Challenges and Solutions FA-310/May 2007

The County Fire Division Chief addressed his Department's results in 3 years of trying to recruit new Paid Call Firefighters. The County Fire recruitment program I was aware of was limited to an ad in the Needles Desert Star.

The last seminar I attended on volunteer recruitment gave the suggestions on finding recruits. One is going to each service club in the area and presenting your recruiting program there. The service club members are already motivated volunteers and may provide a pool of potential candidates. High school ROP/Vocational training was also mentioned.

Palo Verde College does have Fire Service Technology Courses in their curriculum. Most of these classes are taught through their Distant Learning Program with the actual courses being taught by fire agencies like Riverside County Fire at the agency facilities.

Training young people is a good plan, but you must remember once they have the skills and certificates it is unknown how many will opt to seek full time employment else where.

The last Fire Explorer program I remember here was done by Marty Brown, before he was fired by County Fire, and was limited to his grandson and a friend from Lake Havasu City.

Please feel free to share this information with the City Council Members.

I hope this is helpful and have a great day,

Marry Menges

We had once considered an ROP/Vocational training program with the High School, but that never got out of discussion phase.

When a local government requests a Gubernatorial State of Emergency Proclamation, Director's Concurrence, and/or California Disaster Assistance Act funding, local government should provide information describing local response efforts and identify the specific type and extent of state emergency assistance needed, including regulatory waivers necessary to facilitate the protection of life and property during response efforts.

A local emergency proclamation and/or Governor's proclamation is not a prerequisite for mutual aid assistance, Red Cross assistance, the federal Fire Management Assistance Grant Program, or disaster loan programs designated by the U.S. Small Business Administration or the U.S. Department of Agriculture.
